Extravagant Girls.

"Girls are so extravagant these days that it makes a fellow think twice before he rushes into matrimony," said a young man the other day.

He was an earnest, industrious young man, with a successful future before him. He went on to say that he was anxious to marry, but felt that girls expected too much luxury that it seriously handicapped the man who was trying to get on in the world.

"There is no sense in marrying," he said, "if you are going to incur a load of debts or break down under the strain of living beyond your income."

That sounds a rather serious accusation, girls, and though it may be slightly exaggerated, there certainly is some truth in it.

You know there are other forms of extravagance than that of dress or of spending money too freely. There is the extravagance of waste, which usually comes through ignorance.

Many a young wife enters upon her duties with the firm intention of keeping house as economically as possible. She means well, but, unfortunately she has never been taught how to manage.

When she goes to market she buys blindly, without an idea of quantity, cost or quality. She throws away much that might be utilized because she does not know the importance of saving odds and ends.

The husband works hard and wonders where in the world the money goes, when apparently there is little show for it.

You can't learn all these things in a minute, girls. You must learn them gradually. Most of you will marry so early that you will not have time to learn the practical side of life.

There is nothing so discouraging to a hard-working man as an extravagant, wasteful wife. Many happy homes have come to grief through women's foolish extravagance.—Spartanburg Journal.

Sketch of West.

Gaffney, February 28.—Prof. W. B. West, superintendent of the graded schools at Gaffney, who was today appointed auditor for the dispensary, was born in Greenville County, South Carolina, Jan. 10, 1870, and is the son of the late Dr. B. F. West, and was educated in the country schools around his father's home, the Hayes Farm, near Gaffney, and at the University. He has been engaged in teaching most of the time since he finished school. He was principal of the Gaffney High School for five years. At the close of his work at Gaffney he was engaged in mercantile business and was a stock buyer for four years, when he returned to the work of teaching.

After first work at re-entering the teacher's profession was as superintendent of the public schools at Blacksville, S. C., from which place he went to New Decatur, Ala., as superintendent of a very large and flourishing system of schools. This position was resigned to accept the position which he now holds as superintendent of the city schools of Gaffney.

He is a member of the Baptist church and has been active in the work of the church for many years. In Alabama he did considerable work in connection with the Y. M. C. A., of which he is very fond. As a school man he has been a success. He has always, without a single exception, been unanimously re-elected to the position which he has held.

The appointment came as a surprise for Mr. West is anything else but a politician in the usually accepted sense of the term.

If Governor Ansel continues to make such appointments as he has made in selecting the commission to wind up the affairs of the dispensary and in the appointment of the dispensary auditor, he will put himself so far above his critics that they will change their criticism into praise.

Mr. West took charge of this school last fall and since then has shown remarkable ability as an organizer. He is a worker and understands getting odds to work. If he should accept this position it will mean that the school room will lose one of the ablest teachers and disciplinarians in the state.

It is not known whether Mr. West will accept the position or not, nor what effect it will have on our schools. The board will be tempted not to let him off.

Mr. West has been a life-long prohibitionist, both as to theory and practice. He is not only opposed to the sale of whiskey, but is known as a teetotaler. Should he take the position it will be purely from motives of patriotism.—Special to News and Courier.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Both Agreeable and Effective.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no support for coughs, colds and croup, and the fact that it is pleasant to take and contains nothing in any way injurious has made it a favorite with mothers. Mr. W. S. Felham, a merchant of Milwaukee, Iowa, says: "For more than twenty years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been my leading remedy for all throat troubles. It is especially successful in cases of croup. Children like it and my customers who have used it will not take any other. For sale by all Druggists."

She—What was father speaking to you about?

He—Oh, he was asking me my intentions.

He—What? Well, I declare, I think I might as well rather propose to you.

"Oh, no! You see, I borrowed five dollars from him about six months ago and he wanted to know when he might expect it."—Yonkers Statesman.

To Subscribers.

Most of our subscribers know about the time their subscriptions expire. They will confer a favor on us, saving us a good deal of time and labor, if they will renew promptly, so that it may not be necessary for us to send out statements, which is tedious and somewhat expensive. Statements will be sent out within a few days, however, to those who have not renewed.

Until March 1st, we are making a special advance. This applies only to this year and for a whole year's subscription. We make no reduction for less than a year. The reduction is made in the first year only. Premium. We simply offer subscribers 25 cents apiece as a premium. They may use it as they please. Remember this offer is good only until March 1st.

Again, let us ask subscribers to renew at once, saving us time and expense.

LAUGHING HOGS.

Convenience for Butcher on the Farm.

It is an easy matter to plan an ideal equipment for butchering hogs and caring for the product on paper. One must figure out just the form of tables and sealing vats that would afford the greatest convenience, but such a plan is of little use unless it is practical. Because the average farmer has use for such equipment for only a few days in the year, a simple, inexpensive and such as will not take up needless room when not in use.

THE SLAUGHTERING TABLE.

Given with this idea in view. Three important points arise in considering fall butchering upon the farm where the object is simply to secure a supply of meat for family use. First is the easy and convenient handling of water, next, the making of a simple, table and sealing receptacle; lastly, a simple device for smoking meat, for it is not often the case that a house can be given up to this special use.

The first cut shows a big galvanized trough set up for the section of the table can be built beneath, which will, of course, meet off the coating of skin on the bottom of the tub, but this will do no great harm. Such a tub can be purchased anywhere. It should be set up close to the slaughtering table, and when the water in the tub is hot two men lift the tub by the handles and pour contents into the sealing vat.

This latter may have a drain through the top if another tubful of water must be heated. This is much more convenient to heat water in this manner than to use a boiler, from which the water must be taken out in pails and carried perhaps a considerable distance.

The slaughtering table and vat are shown in the second cut. The vat is a sugar hogshead. Make two wooden boxes exactly as high as the hogshead and arrange two wide stout boards to show in the cut, with the "beam" above, suspended from the tank or from a tripod of three stout poles set up over the table and chained together.

TABLE AND VAT.

together on the top. The hog can be lowered into the tub of sealing water by slipping the boards to one side, these being slipped into place again when the carcass has been bled out.

Controlling Johnson Grass.

Secretary Wilson in his annual report, said: "It is believed that data have been secured which will enable the farmer to control Johnson grass and utilize it in a satisfactory way in crop rotation in the south. The secret of success in this work lies in the fact that in a Johnson grass seed left undisturbed for two or three years the root stocks are found only on the surface. In this condition the pest is easily destroyed by shallow plowing and a little extra cultivation the next summer. This permits Johnson grass to be grown in rotation, such as cotton, corn and sorghum, winter oats and Johnson grass for two years. Where the pest is allowed to grow on land that is cultivated in cotton or corn the root stocks penetrate into the soil and eradication is extremely difficult."

Southern Season.

By arranging the rotation of such crops as sorghum, corn, peanuts, clover, artichokes and sweet potatoes in the rotation of crops with good pasturage the animals may be kept in a thrifty, growing condition all the time. The farmer who grows and disposes the southern hog grower can find his animals for market with much less cost and more profit than the western grower.—W. A. Croley.

The Cause.

Figs are more generally grown than any of the subtropical fruits. Texas produces 115,000 pounds, so that it is 285,000. Alabama 141,000. Arizona nearly 1,000,000. and California over 1,000,000. The figs of the southern states grow few figs, and even Kansas grows a very few.—Farm and Ranch.

Tetter, Salt Rheum and Eczema.

On the skin of the face, the Chevalier's Salve is especially valuable. It quickly allays the itching and smarting and soon effects a cure. Price, 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

Doctor (to wife whose husband is ill).—Is not your husband a hypocrite?

Wife—Oh, doctor, he doesn't belong to any society at all.—Memphis Dispatch.
